STAFF RESPONSE TO DIGITAL THREATS

Disclaimer: presentation contains my own point of view, not the one of the Council, its secretariat nor of the European Council or its secretariat
I will not provide you

• Any classified information
• Juicy soundbites on leaks
• Embarrassing anecdotes
• Information on defensive strategies
• The nitty-gritty of defence patrolling
• The lack of glamour of incident post-mortems
The problem

• Who tries to break into our organisations’ networks?
• Or into our smartphones, tablets, computers, etc.
• Are there defensive surveillance measures in place?
• And are they necessary?
• Should we resist them?
• What should we tell staff members?
Some provisional conclusions

• Duty to contribute to the defence of our information
• Duty to tell staff that communications may be monitored
• Duty to indicate which solution exist (one size fits NOT all)
• Questions?
